INTRODUCTION:

Many students use humor as an outlet and as a distraction from what they fear. This fear can be caused by personal, social, and academic challenges. The inappropriate use of humor can cause disruptions to the student's academic success, and also to their classmates.

Integrating humor effectively has been proven to reduce stress, minimize tension and enhance overall well-being. These are all critical elements to enhance a student's academic experience.

WORKSHOP PROFILE:

COMEDY 101, presented by Philly Plowden, is a workshop designed to Encourage, Motivate, and guide students into using their comic energy constructively.

COMEDY 101 facilitates social adjustment through group interaction and applied humor. Student's burn comic energy in a constructive format and not use their humor as a way of taking focus off the teacher whose responsibilities these days are far greater than ever.

BENEFITS TO STUDENTS:

Comedy 101 will offer the principles on how to write comedy routines, how to draw the humor from one's own life, exploring improvisation techniques, losing the fear of speaking in a public format, stimulated positive creative energy, as well as learning the critical elements of a professional career in the world of stand up comedy. Your school or community center may have the next Jerry Seinfeld, Chris Rock, or Wayne Brady!

Based on your needs, COMEDY 101 can be offer many formats. Group activity and a special feature provide students with the opportunity for immediate application and reinforcement of learned skills. The workshop is a great addition to a school assembly; youth group meetings, student leadership training, or as a special program for after-school.

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS, YOUTH ORGANIZERS, PARENTS, & GUARDIANS:

Try something different to get your students attention.
